More of the SUIT SALE

VERY mid-season there is one of these special clearing sales of superfluous stock. Usually prices are cheapened here and there where assortments are overcrowded, or where some particular style has failed to strike popular favor. This sale is different. There is a uniform reduction in the price of every suit, whether colored or black, small size or large size, expensively elaborated or simple in design; the high-priced and the low-priced fall together.

Every Suit is a Full Fourth Cheaper

$11.25 pays for Costumes previously sold at $15.00 each.
$15.00 is the price of others regularly selling at $20.00.
$18.75 gives you choice of our very popular range of $25.00 Suits.
$22.50 is all that a handsome $30.00 Costume will now cost you.

Throughout the full range of Tailored Costumes this ratio of reduction is maintained.

Indian Baskets and Blankets

A very interesting exhibit and sale of Indian Baskets, Navajo Blankets and novelty handiwork of the red men will be held on our Drapery Floor this week.

Most of the specimens are from Alaska and British Columbia, and were collected by Mrs. Eddy, who has just returned from Portland, Oregon. Some very rare baskets are shown and prices are most reasonable. But come whether you care to buy or not; so unique a collection is well worth seeing.

HORSE KILLED BY SHAFT

DRIVEN INTO IT BY ANOTHER HORSE WHICH WAS RUNNING AWAY.

Frenzied Animal Ran Around Monument Place and Finally Collided with a Transfer Wagon.

The mass of people on Monument place yesterday afternoon was startled by a runaway horse that darted in and out, missing every person but killing another horse. The horse that was running was owned by K. Munter, a liveryman on East Market street. It was attached to a light buggy and was standing in front of the office. The horse became frightened and dashed west on Market street.

Before the horse reached Monument place a number of persons got in the middle of the street and tried to stop it, but it evaded them. Into the Circle it swerved, smashing the light buggy it pulled. A horse used by the Indianapolis Sentinel was standing at the corner of the circle. The runaway horse tried to cut around the corner of Meridian street and ran into the other horse. One of the shafts of the buggy penetrated the Sentinel's horse, killing it instantly.

The runaway horse reared and pawed at people as if it were mad. Then it ran south on Meridian street across Washington, barely missing several women and children. Screams and yells accompanied the flight of the horse. At the crossing of Maryland and Meridian streets a wagon of the Hogan Transfer Company was going west. The runaway horse ran into this outfit, knocking the driver from the seat and also knocking down the horse. The runaway horse was fatigued by this time and Patrolman Naughton took it in charge. The horse that was killed was the property of Barrows & Pierce, liverymen, 132 and 137 West Market street.

Is there any reason why a few hundred thousand dollars of the millions of life premiums taken out of Indiana annually should not be left and invested here? The American Central Life Insurance Company is here to accomplish this object.

JORDAN GIRL IS FOUND

SHE WAS LIVING WITH THREE OTHER GIRLS IN A FLAT.

Eli Hiatt, an Old Soldier, Arrested After Police Heard Their Stories—Woman Owns the Flat.

Sadie Jordan, a thirteen-year-old girl, living at 1117 Maple street, who disappeared from home, was found yesterday by Patrolmen Paulsen and Vaughn. The girl had been rooming in the Volney flats, on West Washington street. With her were Gladys Hiatt, whose mother owns the apartments in which the girls lived, and Stella Hayden, 2330 Cornell avenue. The Hayden girl said she left her home last Saturday.

The police heard that the missing girls were living on West Washington street. They found the girls in possession of the flat. The latter said she had been visiting relatives in Pittsburgh. When she returned, she said, she found the girls in possession of the flat. The police took the quartet to the police station and an investigation was made. Superintendent Taffe questioned the girls and Mrs. Hiatt about their life on West Washington street. Mrs. Hiatt seemed to know little concerning any of the girls except her daughter, who, she said, was fifteen years old. The Hayden girl said she was eighteen years old. It was learned that Eli Hiatt, an old soldier, fifty-seven years of age, a relative of Mrs. Hiatt's, had made numerous visits to the girls while Mrs. Hiatt was away. The girls told a shocking story of immorality with Hiatt. Superintendent Taffe, after hearing the testimony, detailed Bryce and Lieberman Street and Leish to hunt for Hiatt. The policemen found him in a resort on the West Side. He was arrested.

In the pocketbook of the Jordan girl was found a letter written last Saturday. It was addressed to her mother. The girl started out by telling her mother, in a most abrupt manner, that the girl's body could be found in a shocking story of immorality with Hiatt. Superintendent Taffe, after hearing the testimony, detailed Bryce and Lieberman Street and Leish to hunt for Hiatt. The policemen found him in a resort on the West Side. He was arrested.

CONVENTION OF W. R. C.

SARAH E. WHITE, OF ROCKVILLE, SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT.

Belle Ingersoll, of This City, Mrs. White's Opponent, Elected Junior Vice President.

SPEECH BY WALLACE FOSTER

ARRAIGNS THE GRAND ARMY FOR SLIGHTING THE WOMEN.

Their Patriotic Work Not Properly Recognized, He Says—Proceedings of Ladies of the G. A. R.

After the opening exercises of the Woman's Relief Corps yesterday the convention returned to the election of officers, which was not completed Tuesday. The candidates for senior vice president were Sarah E. White, of Rockville, and Belle Ingersoll, of Indianapolis. Mrs. White received the highest number of votes and was declared elected. Mrs. Ingersoll was unanimously chosen junior vice president. Sarah Adair, of Elwood, and Mary Gillson, of Decatur, were nominated for the office of chaplain. A ballot resulted in the election of Mrs. Adair.

A delegation from the Sons of Veterans, consisting of Division Commander Kreitenstein, Colonel McGuire, Frank L. Martin and D. E. Sherrick, were admitted and introduced from the platform. On invitation each visitor addressed the convention.

The announcement was made that Captain Wallace Foster was at the door, and the committee on courtesies was instructed to escort him to the platform, from which he was introduced and enthusiastically received by the members of the convention. Captain Foster then read an address on the subject of "Patriotic Teaching," after which he was escorted from the room amid music and the waving of flags.

Captain Foster said: "In the seventeenth department convention I made a protest against any interference with your patriotic programme introduced and promulgated in 1893. In my appeal to the thirty-fourth National Encampment, G. A. R., that met in Chicago in 1896, I need not reiterate. I again appealed direct to the commander-in-chief, Leo Rassieur, and in his address to the thirty-fifth National Encampment at Cleveland, O., in 1897, he gave credit and honor to the Woman's Relief Corps as the prime movers and promoters in all patriotic work, and stated that they were worthy of the co-operation of the Grand Army of the Republic. In the commander-in-chief's address he paid a high tribute to your organization and its high patriotism, and in his closing remarks said: 'Honor to whom honor is due.' His endorsement of your patriotic work gave general satisfaction to the majority of the members of the G. A. R., and I believed that all differences would be amicably settled to the entire satisfaction of both organizations; but no conference was held by the national president and her patriotic instructor and the special committee, commander-in-chief, who had the work of patriotic teaching in hand.

"The special aid simply ignored that part of the commander-in-chief's address recommending co-operation in your patriotic work, and also ignored the fact that he issued his instructions to department aids. When his attention was called to the address and the recommendations of the commander-in-chief he pleaded ignorance and expressed regret that he had already sent out his instructions, and that nothing could be done during the present year. While I can take no part in your deliberations, I must respectfully protest against the unfair methods of the special aid in his efforts to dictate to you when he should come to you and offer assistance in strengthening your work. He should have consulted the national president and the national patriotic instructor before he arranged his programme and gave out his instructions. It now appears, however, that he is willing to effect a compromise by retiring his mongrel salute to the flag and adopting Colonel Baldwin's salute, providing that the W. R. C. will adopt the Youth's Companion salute for the higher school grades."

Following the address of Captain Foster Mrs. Jones, national president, stated that an effort had been made by the national president to effect a union with the Grand Army in the patriotic work of these organizations, and that recently this had been effected.

The remainder of the morning was spent in disposing of the reports of officers and other miscellaneous business. At 12 o'clock the convention adjourned and met in afternoon session at 1:30 p. m.

MRS. TORRANCE A GUEST.
 Among the distinguished guests who visited the convention were Mrs. Torrance, the wife of the national commander-in-chief of the G. A. R.; National Adjutant General Towler and Capt. W. H. Armstrong, of the national council of administration.

Mrs. Torrance was introduced to the convention and related in a very pleasing manner her experiences while accompanying her husband on his official visits throughout the Southern States. She stated that in every instance she was most cordially received by the women of the South, and that the sectional differences no longer existed between the North and the South.

Adjutant General Towler followed with remarks expressive of the appreciation of the work done by the Woman's Relief Corps and bearing on the activities of the commander-in-chief. He was followed by Captain Armstrong, who addressed the convention in a pleasing manner. The guests were escorted from the room to the inspiring notes of "Rally Round the Flag."

When the announcement was made that Benjamin Starr, the newly elected department commander of the G. A. R., was waiting, great excitement prevailed, not only because of the gratification felt at the election of so popular a man as commander, but it had become an open secret that the national council of administration was in need of a large donation to the Christmas fund, which had become depleted. He was most enthusiastically received and addressed the convention in a characteristic speech. Mr. Starr was accompanied by Past Department Commander Travis, who also addressed the convention. Commander Starr was presented with a beautiful floral offering by the women of Richmond.

When the convention opened in the afternoon the election of the officers was resumed. The selection of the members of the executive board was as follows: Belle Ingersoll, Rockville; Bonnie Armstrong, Indianapolis; Lydia Cook, Anderson; Alice Laupher, Lebanon; Lizzie Mansfield, Richmond; Mrs. Mendhall, Cincinnati; Cicero, was unanimously elected delegate at large and Mrs. Kate Johnson, of Libermont, was unanimously chosen alternate. Mrs. Mendhall withdrew in favor of Mary Dewy, of Cicero, who was elected to fill the vacancy.

The delegates elected from the districts are as follows: District No. 1, Kate Conrad, Petersburg; No. 2, Lora M. Reed, New York; No. 3, Anna Strassinger, Greensburg; No. 4, Alice Aldridge, Rushville; No. 5, Laura Crider, Alexandria; No. 6, Elizabeth Fowler; No. 7, Nora Oram; No. 8, Isabelle Neal; No. 9, Flora Smith, Bremen. Afternoon session was held at 2 p. m. The president, Calista R. Jones, and senior vice president, Etta Houk; senior vice president, Belle Ingersoll; chaplain, Sarah Adair; treasurer, Mabel Teague; secretary, Sallie Hiner; counselor, Mary D. Travis. Headquarters will be established at Noblesville.

Ladies of the G. A. R.
 The Ladies of the G. A. R. ended their convention yesterday with the installation of officers. Before this Adjutant General

Towler, of the G. A. R., acting as the representative of Commander Torrance, visited the convention and addressed the delegates. The association presented the retiring president, Mrs. E. C. Baxter, with a ring, and the following delegates and alternates to the national convention were elected: Delegates at large—Mrs. E. C. Ward, Monticello; Mrs. Mary Colwell, Aurora; Mrs. Ella Tryon, Monroeville; Mrs. J. E. Corwell, Logansport.

SHORTHORN CATTLE SALE.
 George Harding & Son Paid $2,105 for a Cow and Calf.

Thirteen sales were made during the morning for a total of $13,315, an average of $750. The best offering was the cow Duchess of Gloster and her calf, from the consignment of E. E. Souers, of Warren, Ind. George Harding & Son, of Waukesha, Wis., paid $2,105 for the cow and calf. F. H. Gilchrist, of Hope, paid $1,025 for the cow Missie of Lonesboro, offered by W. D.
